THE SOCIAL PROTECTION VIRTUAL CAMPUS IS LAUNCHED AT THE INTERNATIONAL LABOUR CONFERENCE

(<http://socialprotection.itcilo.org>)

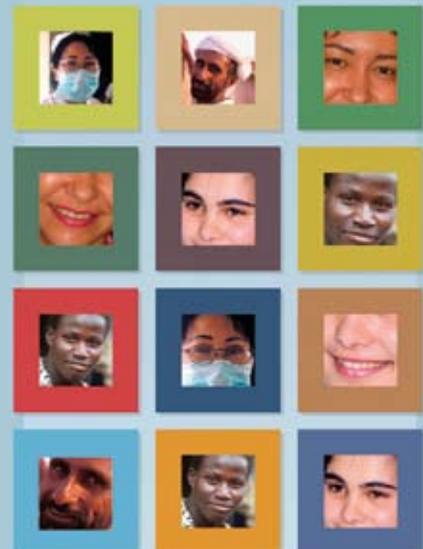

The Virtual Campus, which uses the most advanced distance learning technology available, was inaugurated on 9 June 2008 during the 97th Session of the International Labour Conference. This pioneering and unique virtual platform is a "one-stop shop" for accessing the training offered by the Turin Centre and QUATRRAIN AMERICAS. The Virtual Campus is multilingual and linked to the Social Security Department's other specialist platforms.

The Social Protection Virtual Campus is a portal for generating and disseminating interdisciplinary knowledge. Its aim is to develop institutional capacities and individual competencies in order to make social protection systems more effective and to extend their coverage. It will achieve this through distance learning, technical cooperation, exchanges of information and experience, and the creation of contact and knowledge networks.

Professionals from social protection institutions, employers' and workers' representatives, academics, researchers, students, professionals from NGOs, as well as other interested parties, are invited to share this forum for continuing learning and communication.

A SUCCESSFUL CONCLUSION TO THE PILOT PROJECT IN CHILE

On 6 June 2008, the course held in Santiago on training in actuarial methods applied to social security for Chilean government officials came to an end. The final module, an introduction to programming with applications to the actuarial aspects of social security, was presented by Professor François Dufresne of the University of Lausanne in Switzerland.

During the closing ceremony at the headquarters of the Budget Department of the Chilean Ministry of the Economy, Alberto Arenas (Budget Director), Mario Ossandón (Undersecretary of Social Security) and Guillermo Miranda (Director of the ILO Subregional Office in Santiago) presented participants with their diplomas, which were awarded jointly by the Ibero-American Social Security Organization (OISS), the International Training Centre in Turin and QUATRRAIN AMERICAS.

The course will serve as the basis for the development of materials and methodologies used in other training activities in the region.

The following institutions are involved:

- University of Alcalá de Henares, Spain
- Latin American and Caribbean Center, Florida International University, United States
- University of the West Indies, Jamaica

neiro (UERJ), and Brazilian Institute of Actuaries (IBA)

- Training Institute of the Social Security Bank (BPS), Uruguay
- University of Buenos Aires, Latin American Faculty of Social Sciences (FLACSO), ISALUD University, Argentina
- University of Chile

During the second half of 2008, links with other universities and training institutions will be established in Andean and Central American countries.

In order to maximize the impact of training and cost reduction programmes, QUATRRAIN's strategy is based on training courses at different levels which will include both distance learning and classroom components at the subregional level. The three levels are intended for: (i) managers and decision-makers; (ii) intermediate-level technical staff from social security institutions; and (iii) the future generation of actuaries, economists and social security finance specialists.

BELO HORIZONTE

CHALLENGES FACING PUBLIC SERVICE SOCIAL SECURITY SCHEMES IN LATIN AMERICA

In Latin America, some countries, such as Argentina, Brazil and Mexico, face similar challenges in providing social security for public servants owing to the fragmentation and stratification of systems within a federal structure. The main challenges are to improve institutional coordination between different schemes, to promote financial and actuarial sustainability, and to improve management of the schemes.

In order to allow an exchange of experiences and knowledge with regard to the challenges facing public service social security schemes in an international setting, the Brazilian Ministry of Social Security, the Brazilian National Council of Senior Managers of the Public Service Social Security Scheme (CONAPREV) and the Argentine Federal Council on Social Security (COFEPRES), in cooperation with QUATRRAIN AMERICAS and the Inter-American Conference on Social Security (CISS), organized the first Latin American meeting of senior managers of public service social security schemes. The event was also supported by the Institute of Social Security for Civil Servants of Minas Gerais State (IPSEMG).

The meeting was attended by 56 participants from Argentina, Brazil, Costa Rica and Mexico. They discussed issues relating to actuarial analysis and funding, investments, organization and institutional coordination. The conclusions will be submitted to the next CISS
